MOTHS SAVY IS TO DO.

Morris Island, August 24—The object for which Gen. Giltuore came upon Morris Island has been accomplished. Fort Sumter at this moment is nothing but a shattered remonant of its former shape—a huge mass of debris—tendered uncleable and useless for all military purposes. That was the first and great victory to be achieved in the progress of the siege against Charleston. All that the land forces were required to do has been done. If the public expect much more they must look to the navy—the navy which has then far exhibited a strong and nuaccountable reinctance to come up WHAT THE NAVY IS TO DO. is Island should be out of our pos-they would not be if the iron-clads r proper position, and that position r bunder.

clade remain where they now are, it does not seem very probable that any further results in the successful progress of the siege will be attained. Certainly not, nulese Gen. Glimore favors us with another brilliant stroke of his genius.

Yesterday morning the Monitors did go to within a very short distance of Sunter, but as soon as the fog whick enveloped them commonder firstly, away they went, after firing three rounds, to their old positions among the remainder of the fleet. The excess on former occasions has been that the navy feared Samter, and now Samter is off the programme, it is rather difficult to determine what new obstands have respectively to the control of the fleet. This sort of foolery is not going to do the work for us. If the iron-clads have the virtue they elaim, now is the time to display it and turn it to a glorious account. It returns with the navy to place us in possession of Charleston.

A SIRGULAR SIECE.

The siege of Fort Sumter that is now going on is probably the first attempt in the military history of the world where a distant fortification has been intensity beeinged over the heads of the germens of two other fortifications in disect line with the point attacked. The three works stand about as follows:

Our Batteries. Wagner. Gregt. Sumtr.

Our nearest batteries are 3:200 yards. or one mile and three quarters from Sumter, 500 yards from Samter, and the average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles when he average is about 3500 yards, or two miles Our nearest batteries are 3200 yards, or one mile and three quarters from Sumter, 500 yards from Wagner and one mile from Battery Greek. Our batteries range from 3200 to 4000 yards from Sumter, and the average is about 3500 yards from Sumter, and the average is about 3500 yards, or two miles Whenever the two intermediate works become troublesome, Admiral Dahlgren takes them in hand and recovery quiet, and at times he orders his fleet to the summer them and at times he orders his fleet to the sum them you have given no cause for offense. When they have given no cause for offense, when they have given no cause for offense, when they are all quink he does all he can to the more summer of the necessity of keeping quiet ta when troublesoms he administers an admonition in the shape of shot and shell, which proves effectual. Thus these two formidable warks are, in a measure, siest especiators of the contest going on over their beads.—Cor. Battimore American.

Russin and the United States. The New York Times of August 21st, in a leading article entitled "The Fatal Choice of Eugland," speaks thus of Russia:

England," speaks thus of Ruesia:

Ruesia is now a nation of nearly seventy millions, having increased sevenfold since the days of Peter the Great, while England has increased less than feerfold, and France less than two-fold.

Its area is already as large as all the rest of Earspe. The great bulk of the population is of uniform race, and that race, the Slavio, has the finest brain—as witness Ruesian diplomacy—and the toughest sinews—as witness Bouapatre's anothitated legious—in the Old World. Nuch an intense nationality prevails nowhere else in Europe. It has all the power of a fanaticism. Crarism has fulfilled its mission in consolidating the empire.
