Concerning State and city affairs, it will each to discover and advocate the best interests of our people, and sid in every measure calculated to premote their presperity and happinee. It is unnecessary to say more, for it is by perform-ances, and not by promises, the paper will be judged.

Bearganisation of Labor.

In our first articles on the reorganization of labor, we have shown by what means the Coloical Government of the French Antilles had succeeded in restoring to agriculture the bands which emancipation had at first wrested from it. In the following essay, furnished as by one of the former proprietory of this paper, now residing in Paris, it will be seen with what valuable resources imagingation supplied the English and French colonies. Besides, the statistics which it contains will phosens a certain degree interest for the planetere of Lustiana and of the other Southern States.

Here is a symposis of an article published in Review Constale of 1852:

Whilst emigrants seemed reluctant to wond their way to the West Indies, measures were adopted in Marritine, in 1869, which attracted a large number of Indian laborarato that inland. Thirty-f art thousand one handred and twenty-one of the latter, exclusive of women and children, landed in Mauritine, within the short space of 14 months. But emigration on such a cegle could not take place without seriously embarrassing the colony.
