NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 19, 1888. THE IMPORTANCE OF A "THOROUGH" REPAIR SYSTEM. We do not suppose it is necessary to explain to you at length upon the great importance of a thorough repair system in the case of a ship. It is a well known fact that the life of a ship is largely dependent upon the condition of its hull. If the hull is not properly repaired, it is liable to leak, and the cargo is liable to be lost. It is, therefore, of great importance that a ship should be repaired in a thorough and complete manner. The importance of a thorough repair system is also illustrated by the fact that a ship which is not properly repaired is liable to be detained at port, and the cargo is liable to be lost. It is, therefore, of great importance that a ship should be repaired in a thorough and complete manner.

DEATH OF JOHN PERRETT. The death of John Perrett, a well-known citizen of this city, is announced. He died at his residence on the 18th inst. at the age of 78 years. He was a native of France and had spent most of his life in this country. He was a member of the French Consulate and was highly respected by his fellow citizens. His death is a great loss to the community.
