

Table with shipping schedules: STRAMSHIPS, For New York, SUNDAY, MAY 14, 1872

NEW ORLEANS DAILY BEE DUFFO & LINDY, PRINTERS No. 78 CHARTRES STREET

The New Orleans Bee

NEW ORLEANS, FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 14, 1872. YEAR—Vol. XLV.—Whole—35,697

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Summary of the Latest Dispatches. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE. London, June 12.—Doubts of Southey's success in the election of the House of Commons are being expressed. The result of the election will be decided in a few days. The House of Commons is expected to meet on the 15th inst. The result of the election will be decided in a few days.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

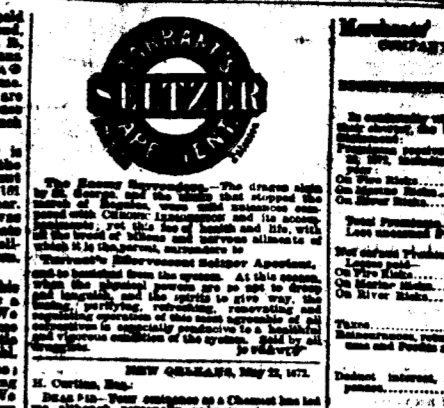

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Another Hero Gone. General Daniel W. Adams died suddenly yesterday evening at half-past four o'clock at his office No. 13 Chartres street. He had been in the city since the late of the year 1868, and was well known to the public as a writer and editor of the Bee. He was a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, a graduate of the University of the South, and a member of the bar at New Orleans.

Advertisement for various goods and services, including watches and jewelry.

Advertisement for a business or organization, possibly a newspaper or magazine.

Advertisement for a business or organization, possibly a newspaper or magazine.

Advertisement for a business or organization, possibly a newspaper or magazine.

Advertisement for a business or organization, possibly a newspaper or magazine.

Advertisement for a business or organization, possibly a newspaper or magazine.

Advertisement for a business or organization, possibly a newspaper or magazine.

Advertisement for a business or organization, possibly a newspaper or magazine.

Advertisement for a business or organization, possibly a newspaper or magazine.

COMMERCIAL. OFFICE OF THE BEE. THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 13, 1872. The Bee has just received the following news from New York: The result of the election will be decided in a few days.

Advertisement for various goods and services, including watches and jewelry.

Advertisement for a business or organization, possibly a newspaper or magazine.