AMATEUR WOOD CARVING.

Wood carving for pleasure and recreation has now become, especially with the women of this country, something more than a passing fancy.

A writer in The Decorator and Furnisher, giving some instruction in this pleasant art to beginners, impressing upon them the necessity of securing good tools. The best of tools should be in the hands of the novice who desires good ultimate results.

To those who would like to carve in wood, but shrink from attempting the scrolls and dolphins of renaissance design, our common flowers are recommended.

Artistic hangings for windows may be made by placing a piece of fretwork across the upper part of the window and from it hang a deep ruff of dotted madras or lace of any pretty design.

FASHIONS IN DRESS.

There is a decided tendency toward princess gowns, not that the gowns of today are made all in one, but many of them appear to be cut in one.

It is, however, in evening dress that one finds the more decided novelties. Some of the imported gowns are fashioned half way to the waist, while others are trimmed to simulate an overskirt.

Sleeves for evening gowns afford a novelty, being made in many instances of double frillings of tulle, silk or lace and standing out short and fluffy, after the fashion of a ballet skirt.

Fashionable materials for dressy gowns are in more evidence. There are more broadens, more poplins, faille and satin.
