A CURIOUS FACT.

It is Very Strange Yet True That Radiantly Beautiful Women Love Homely Men.

The older I get," said a writer in the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "the more certain I become that personal beauty has nothing to do with romantic love—I mean on the part of women. I saw an example on the street car just now-a creature as exquisite as a morning in May openly mooning over a fellow ugly enough to scare a coyote out of the Bad Lands. There was no sort of doubt about it, either, and the rapt way she gazed up into his misfit mug would have boiled six gallons of liquid mir. He took it nonchalantly, the rascal, and didn't seem to appreciate his lock. But that's the way of it the world over. Your radiantly beautiful women generally lose their hearts to men who could give a gargoyle points on plainness, and I'll bet if the truth was known Paris was homely enough to break a camera. If he had been a handsome chappie Helen would have stuck to her hubby and Troy wouldn't have fallen. But what I started out to say was this: There is a total lack of reciprocity in the game; and it's the rarest thing in the world for a good-looking man to become enamored of a homely woman. When he does you can generally bet that his vision has been inspired by her cold cash. But if it wasn't for the inexplicable penchant of Beauty for the Beast the race of ugly folk would be perpetuated exclusively by the types of Venus and Apollo. Perhaps it's better, however, the way it is."

LITTLE KNOWN ISLANDS.

Peculiarities of Dress and Custom in the Recently Acquired Farces of Denmark.

The Farce islands have been incorporated with the kingdom of Denmark for many years and send two members to the Danish parliament, but they retain a certain degree of independence. Their local affairs are managed by an assembly which sits in Thorshavn and still is called the lagthing, though it is under the presidency of an amtman appointed by the king; and they enjoy special exemption from conscription and from export and import duties, says Blackwood's Magazine.

Both sexes have an air of refinement and dignity often seen among true peasants, but the men are usually handsome. They are not tall, but strong and well built, with broad shoulders and magnificent calves.

Their costume shows them off to the best advantage, for it consists (with the exception of a loose coat, which is not always worn) of tight fitting garments -a knitted guernsey or a cloth jacket adorned with silver buttons, black knee breeches, felt-like gray stockings and hide shoes; while their high caps colored in narrow stripes of red and blue or black, add to their apparent height.

If one of them is asked to what nationality he belongs he will answer: "To Faroe," and if reminded that Faroe is now a province of Denmark, "Yes," he will say, "but our ancestors came from Norway, and the only Dane who came near these parts at the settling was killed in Iceland."

A CHINESE SURGEON.

One Who Was Speedily Led to Appreciate the Superiority of Modern Methods.

When Dr. Wenyon, the famous medical missionary, went to China, many years ago, he had to combat a great deal of prejudice against the practice of his profession. However, many patients came to him and he made many cures, but some of the Chinese literati jealously instigated an opposition hospital to Wenyon's, equipped with all the facilities for the practice of medicine according to Chinese etiquette.

A staff of Celestial doctors administered the drugs. The place was called "The Hall of Ten Thousand Virtues," but somehow that did not assist the cures. In fact, it came to be a case of going to Wenyon's for a cure and to the "Ten Thousand Virtues" for a coffin.

One day there came to the missionarv a stately gentleman, a learned man belonging to the upper classes, having mainful disorder needing surgical treatment. He hired a private room, was operated on and in a fortnight he was well. He had not told who he was, but before he went away he said to the

"You might like to know who I am, and I want to tell you, because I am so grateful for being cured of this terrible disease. I am the head physician of the Hail of Ten Thousand Virtues."

MOODY AND THE ROWDY.

How the Well-Known Evangelist's Quick Wit Saved Him from a Probable Drubbing.

A few years ago when Evangelist Moody was preaching in the slume of a large city he was delayed in leaving the hall till late in the evening, says a writer in Ladies' Home Journal. The exit was in a back street, and as he left the building he found a number of roughs waiting to annoy him. As he walked along he heard them say: "Here he comes!" and they prepared to jostle him from the sidewalk. Going straight up to the ringleader, Mr. Moody held out his overcoat, and, with self-possession that commanded complete respect, said:

"My friend, won't you just help me on with this overcoat? I am not quite so active now as I was at your age, and some day, when you are as old as I am. I'll be glad to do you the same

No bully was ever more completely taken by surprise. He held the overcoat for the evangelist to get into it, and then thanking the young man for his aid, Mr. Moody went along unmolested.

SOPHS FIX RULES.

Decide How Princeton Freshmen May Escape Hazing.

Must Submit Meekly to Snowballing-Cannot Stay Out After Nine P. M.-When They Can Wear Duck Trousers.

The sophomore class of Princeton university, at a special meeting held in Dickinson hall, unanimously adopted, amid great enthusiasm, a most remarkable set of rules to govern the downtrodden freshmen.

Last year the university authroities at a meeting, determined to stop the hazing of first-year men by the sophomore class. Both the classes of 1900 and 1901 have lost some of their best men, who have been suspended or expelled on account of this determination.

So many men have been disciplined that the men of 1901 got together at the call of their president, D. V. Hutchins, and decided they would forever abolish hazing provided the faculty would return the men already expelled or upon probation, and provided the freshmen would accept the rules formulated and adopted.

Here are a few things that the sophomores demand: "Sophomores, juniors, and seniors may snowball freshmen and the latter must not fire back." "Freshmen must not be seen on the streets after nine o'clock at night. Freshmen must doff their caps if asked or monogramed hats or caps." "They must absolutely not be seen in public restaurants, saloons, or hotel offices. If they desire soda water they may drink at two named drug stores. "Duck trousers are tabooed until after the first Princeton-Harvard baseball game.

to in polite manner by the sophomores.

They must not wear 'Fedora,' 'horse,'

Dr. Eckholm Gives His Views on the Fate of the Expedition.

Dr. Eckholm, the celebrated scientist, who was to have accompanied Prof. Andree in his balloon to the north pole, but changed his mind because he believed that the gas would escape through the seams before the object of the expedition could be attained, has written an article in the Dagbladet, in which he declares that unless the aeronaut is heard from this fall the conclusion may be reached that he and his party have perished. The writer argues that the balloon could not keep affoat for more than ten days, therefore, Andree could not have crossed the polar circle. Dr. Eckholm hopes that Andree effected a landing a few days after his start, when he must have found that he could not proceed any further in mid air. It is quite possible after landing that the party, with the aid of the boat and skis, came within two degrees of the pole. Dr. Eckholm also thinks it possible that the expedition ended on Franz Josef Land. In that case the expedition must have been there all winter and should arrive in Norway before the extreme cold weather sets in this winter. Andree and his companions, Drs. Strinberg and Fraenkel, believed that their balloon could keep afleat for more than a month.

MONUMENT AT BLAINE'S TOMB

Blasted Tree Is Destroyed by Storm and a Marble Shaft Will Now Be Erected.

The grave of the late Secretary of State James G. Blaine, which has heretofore been unmarked save for a dead oak tree, will have a monument of the finest marble from Vermont. Ever since the death of Mr. Blaine his expressed wish that nothing should mark his last resting place but the blasted tree has been carefully observed, but as a result of a heavy windstorm that ruined the tree some months ago Mrs. Blaine decided the grave should receive suitable recognition, and the monument ordered is now being inscribed at Washington preparatory to its erection at the head of the grave. The stone is eight feet high, of the simplest design, and devoid of ornamentation. The inscription consists simply of the name, date and place of birth and date and place of death.

RENOVATING PALESTINE.

Sultan's Zeal in Preparing Palestine for German Emperor's Visit Re-, sults in Vandalism.

The zeal of the sultan of Turkev to renovate every town and village in Palestine through which Emperor William of Germany passes, has resulted in even holy places being vandalized. The historical house of Simon the Tanner, where Saint Peter lived, has been painted bright blue and its floors have been laid with colored tiles. Besides this, the building has been enclosed by a gaudy fence, while a superb iron screen, over a dome of rock, dating back to the days of the crusaders has been coated with yellow paint.

Why Some People Live Long. Is there a microbe of longevity? It would really seem so from the diversity of courses ascribed by aged people to account for their long lives. Sir Isaac Holden, an ancient man who lately died in England, said he owed the prolongation of his existence to his bstinence from bread. Thomas Whittington lived to 101 years and never drank any liquid except ardent spirits. A centenarian smuggler said his prescription for long life was "wet leet every day and drunk every night."

ELEPHANT GREAT IN CRIME.

The Animal's Intellectual Powers Are Most Apparent in His Schemes for Revenge.

Few more impressive confidences can be imparted than one in which a Hindoo describes how he knows his elephant intends to destroy him. It is all so seemingly trivial, and yet in reality of such deadly significance. His story is so full of details that prove the man's profound understanding of what he is talking about that one remains equally amazed at the brute's power to dissemble and its intended victim's insight into the would-be murderer's character. And yet, from the psychological standpoint, an elephant never gives any other such indication of mental power as is exhibited in its revenge. That patient, watchful, implacable hatred, often provoked simply because a man is in attendance upon another animal (for it is the rule with tuskers to detest their next neighbors), speaks more conclusively of a high intellectual guide than all stories, true or false, that have been told of their ability. Such concentration and fixedness of purpose, such careful, unrelaxed vigilance, such perfect and consistent pretense, and when the time comes, such desperate, unhesitating energy as homicidal animals exhibit, are impossible without a very considerable, although in this instance, very irregular, development, says Outing.

No one can deny that if this creature is great at all its greatness shows itself in its crimes. These have caused it to be worshiped in the east, where men venerate nothing but merciless, irresponsible force, and where an exhibition of those qualities and traits described fully account for the formula: "My lord, the elephant."

NOT A COWARD. The Strange Effect of Nervous Strain on a Brave Little Soldier

in Cubs. Nervous excitement is responsible for much that might pass for cowardice. The author of "A Cuban Expedition" speaks of one dreadful day, when he and his comrades sat in a wet ditch and waited, concealed, while the Spaniards were so near that escape seemed almost impossible. . The discomfort of our predicament

-up to the middle in mud and water, with the rain pouring down on uswas at the moment unfelt, in our excitement and eagerness in watching the enemy. Little Joe Storey, who was next to me, was trembling all over. Suddenly he grasped my arm and whispered: "Oh, what shall I do? I must scream or fire off my rifle! I can't help it!" I, too, felt that he would do either the one or the other, and I whispered back the first thing that occurred to "Storey," I said, "if you make the least noise, I'll stab you to death! Then I told him to keep his eyes closed, and try to think of something else, until he heard the first shot fired. After that he might shout as loudly as he liked. I put one arm about his neck and drew him close to me. There, trembling, he rested like a quiet child. Presently his excitement wore off, and he became used to the situation: then he was heartily ashamed of his breakdown.

But Storey was not a coward. He was a gallant little soul in action, and only his tortured nerves were responsible for this temporary revolt.

WIVES NEEDED.

Necessity Compels Reinxation of Misognyist Cecil Rhodes' Ruie in South Africa.

British South Africa is sadly in need of wives, according to late accounts from that land of diamond mines and millionaires. The chartered company of which Cecil Rhodes is the head has for years frowned on the idea of marriage among its mounted police, civil servants and other employes. This objection has emounted to practical prohibition, and is well known to have been the result of Rhodes' misogynist views. he being a confirmed woman hater. In the past year or two a number of his best men have left the company's service rather than subscribe to Sir Cecil's peculiar notions to the extent of remaining single for life. The result has been that other leading members of the chartered company have taken the matter up. They pointed out that unless a reversal of policy were manifested things would soon assume a serious aspect, as important affairs would be left in the hands of the least reliable of the company's servants. Sir Cecil gave the matter due consideration, and, finding that the protest had most substantial grounds, has surrendered. Accordingly an edict has gone forth among the chartered company's officials promising that preference in promotion will be given to married men, and advising all those who can do so to enter forthwith into the bonds of matrimony.

The Sultan's Throneroom. The throneroom of the sultan, at Constantinople, is a gorgeous sight. The gilding is unequaled by any other building in Europe, and from the ceiling hangs a superb Venetian chandelier, the 200 lights of which make a gleam like that of a veritable sun. At each of the four corners of the room tall candelabra in baccarat glass are placed, and the throne is a huge seat covered with red velvet, and having arms and back of pure gold.

Vines Are Long Lived. The vine attains a great age, continuing fruitful for at least 400 years. It is supposed to be equal to the oak as regards longevity Murdered Rulers of Russia. Of the 11 emperors and empresses of Russia between Peter I. and Alexander II. four have been assassinated.
