

Correspondance.

Notre très distingué concitoyen, M. John Dimitry nous adresse des lignes fort aimables à l'occasion de l'élection de notre nouveau maire; aussi est-ce avec un sentiment de légitime fierté que nous publions ici ces lignes, telles que la remarquable plume de l'écrivain de talent les a tracées:

New Orleans, Nov. 9th. 1899. Mr. Armand Capdevielle. Dear Sir,

I feel in a strong congratulating humor. I exercise that humor in specially congratulating you. I know how you feel over the splendid victory of the Democratic party. The sneers of the Jacksonians at the bosses of the Democrats have had a brilliant refutation. By the way, victory has placed in the hands of an honest man the opportunity which will bring out his integrity of purpose. A great chance awaits him in the Mayoralty, which will be memorable for his reputation.

Please convey to your brother my sincere felicitations. Cordially Yours, JOHN DIMITRY.

A TOAST.

Here's to the victor of the glorious band, Who gained not by chance, but fair and square deal, To hail our victor, Mayor Capdevielle. New Orleans to-day is wreathed in bright smiles, And ring the clarions o'er wiles and miles; For joy are abouting and crying for long, Long live the R. D.'s, their true name can't destroy. Our land with its beautiful flowers and trees, Its swift flowing rivers, its soft blowing breeze, To whom does it please as child unto mother? To France, noble France, ay, and no other. Discovery first gave it the right to be thus, Then purchase has made it the tree to the through. It was her sons who first founded this Magnolia land— To-day France and Erin walk hand in hand. The small Fleur-de-Lis and the Shamrock so green, In honor and culture long will be seen, Honor and Justice shall prevail her 'er right, Now that the R. D.'s shed their beacon light. The man at the helm, Captain John Fitzpatrick, The man of the people, the one who will stick to his followers forever and never will swerve, His heart purest gold and steed every nerve, And here's to Robert Davay, Our Leader who when the clouds grew oppressive proved the workingman's friend; Here's to the ticket, from top unto bottom; Here's to the honor that each one has gotten. Let's toast them again for the sweep that's been made, Aye, once more again, the entire brigade, Aye, and independent in one and all erred, Long may they rule here, the gallant R. D.'s. —Malanie Hourbeigt.
