

HONUS WAGNER BACK IN GAME

By JACK VEIOCK. New York, June 16.—The grand old Dutchman's back again. Honus Wagner, in his forty-third year—his twenty-first in the major leagues—has returned to the diamond. Wagner quit the game this spring. He felt the weight of years beginning to tell and he decided to retire. The baseball world was sad when the famous "Flying Dutchman" of the Pittsburgh Pirates announced that he was going to hang up his glove and discard the spangles, for Honus has been an idol among idols for so many years. And then, just a few days ago, Wagner came back. And the baseball world was glad. It welcomed him with open arms and a ringing cheer. There's nobody like Wagner. What prompted Wagner to come back? He said it was the call of baseball, the call he has answered for twenty-nine years in all; the lure of the game that kept tugging at him—and he told it all in those few words. Garry Herrmann reinstated Wagner gladly, and when he did so he paid him the highest tribute that has ever been paid a ball player, when he said: "It was indeed a pleasure to reinstate Wagner. He is a credit to the game and the game cannot get along without him." Wagner is more than a credit to baseball. His years in the spotlight of fame as an idol of all fans have glorified his name in the annals of the game. Baseball has given him everything he owns, has made him wealthy as well as famous, yet baseball owed him all of that. Wagner, and other great players who spend the best part of their lives on the diamond, are the backbone of the game. They have done more to popularize the sport than anything else, for without them—without the players—there could be no baseball. Wagner, Lajoie, Brown, Mathewson, Kling, Chance, Evers, McGraw, Plank and many veterans who have been a part of the game for years share the glory that comes with greatness on the diamond. There work is a lifework and they have helped to build up the greatest and cleanest of all sports. Wagner did not come back to the diamond for the money that was in it. He has plenty, for with years at a salary of $10,000 he has accumulated more of the worldly stuff than he will ever need. Loves the Game Wagner came back because he loves the game. He is a part of it and a credit to it. And the fact that the lure of the game alone has brought him back shows one big reason why he is an incomparable star; why there is only ONE WAGNER. It is simply because baseball is a part of Wagner's every-along without it and found that it couldn't be done while he still felt the old fever raging through his veins. Baseball is not a game that everyone can play professionally, yet it holds the attention of millions of fans, and the fact makes it all the greater. If the fan, who must play his part of the game from the stands, is satisfied to follow it year after year, it is easy to see what baseball means to the player, whose presence out there on the diamond makes baseball possible. Wagner's comeback will tend to make him more popular than ever. He isn't the Wagner of five or ten years ago, but he is still a grand "ole hoss," and his return means much to the Pirates. Another Come-Back Lee Magee has found his lost batting eye. He has started hitting the ball again after a slump that practically extended over all of the 1916 season, and the first two months of the present season. No one was able to understand why this $22,500 baseball star was unable to hit. Magee could not explain it himself, but he never gave up hope. The other day Lee told the writer that he was getting "hold of 'em better." Shortly after that he commenced hitting again, and by the time the season rolls along to July 4 Lee should be back in the old-time stride. "I'll never tell you what's the matter," said Lee, "because if I knew I wouldn't be sitting on the bench without trying to remedy the trouble. The pitchers haven't any more stuff than they've had for years, but they've been throwing 'em by me. Bill Donovan thinks it's because I needed a rest. Well, I've got the rest now and when I get back in there I'm going to hit 'em or know the reason why." Lee is hitting them.

BILLIARD LEAGUE MAY BE LAUNCHED

If all signs do not fail, the launching of the American Billiard league will be an event of the near future. The idea, originating in Chicago, has found impetus in Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburg, St. Louis and other cities and doubtless this summer the proposed organization will be effected. Its membership likely will be limited to eight or ten roomkeepers in cities throughout the middle west. It is the plan of the organizers of the new league not only to have a three-cushion circuit like that of the Interstate league, but to promote balk-line and pocket billiard's as well. Many tournaments at the latter styles will be arranged and care exercised so that such attractions will in no way conflict with the regularly scheduled games in the proposed three-cushion circuit. "Co-operation and harmony" is to be the slogan of the American Billiard league, which will do everything it can to help rather than impair the strength of the Interstate league which was first in the field but is inadequate, according to the progressive ideas of the new league promoters, to properly aid the growing wants of the most fascinating of indoor pastimes. Billiards like everything else is expanding and needs proper organization. The game is fully a decade behind bowling in this respect and why wait? That the time is ripe and the room ample for another league, one that will promote all kinds of billiards instead of one particular kind is the contention of the roomkeepers who seem firm in their desire to establish the new body. One of the leaders, Louis A. Bensing, of Chicago, already is making plans to conduct a big balk line tournament early next fall, while William P. Mussey, Bensing's business rival in the windy city, looks forward to the match between Whaker Cochran and Leonard Howison as one of the big events for his rooms during October. Bensing and Mussey have joined hands in the new league venture and are out to see it through. The Chicago Billiard league, which has recently finished its first year of play with flying colors, also intends to try its hand at promoting a few attractions aside from three-cushions while it will avoid as much as possible the scheduling of games for next season that will conflict with those of the other leagues. It has been aptly suggested that the secretaries of the various leagues get together before the season opens next fall and arrange their schedules so that the dates of important games will not conflict, a happy thought that will be carried out as much as possible. In addition to Messrs. Bensing and Mussey of Chicago, Fred Smith of Cleveland and Milwaukee, the Sweeney-Huston company of Detroit, Charles Peterson of St. Louis and Harry Davis of Pittsburg are interested in the founding of the new league.

SMOKY JOE WOOD FRETS ABOUT ARM

Cleveland, O., June 16.—"Smoky Joe" Wood, for whose contract Cleveland is reported to have paid $15,000, is plainly worried over the soreness in his pitching arm. The trouble in the elbow and shoulder has refused to yield to treatment. Lee Fohl, manager of the Cleveland team, does not plan to use Wood again until the sweltering days arrive. Warm weather, Fohl believes, will effect a cure for Wood's trouble. "I will pitch any time Fohl says the word," Wood said, "but it would be suicide for me to go against a club until I know my arm can stand the strain. I am a bit discouraged, but can't believe that I am through as a pitcher. Time only will tell and I must not try to force matters." Wood said that after he had pitched seven innings against New York recently his arm "went cold" and it was a tremendous effort to work the remainder of the game.

ELOPERS, 13 AND 14, SAY THEY'LL REPEAT

Chicago, June 16.—"We runned away," they gave their names formally, sedately—Dorothea Field, fourteen, and Gerold Burdan, thirteen, of Pottstown, Pa.—and "we eloped," they said. They added, in even accents, "And we'll do it again. There's no use trying to separate us." This after two amused detectives had herded them from the Union depot, whence they were just departing for California, into the South Clark street police annex. They'll have to go back to Pottstown.

Mulford is Loser In 250-Mile Race

Speedway, Chicago, June 16.—Earl Cooper won the 250-mile automobile race from Ralph Mulford here today, covering the distance without a stop in 2:25:28. Eddie Horn was third. Cooper averaged 103 1-10 miles an hour. Under the ideal weather conditions 27 noted drivers were sent away at 2:15 p. m. today in the 250-mile automobile race at the Chicago speedway. Barney Oldfield, the veteran driver, made quick repairs on his egg-shaped car and was a last minute starter.

LOST DOUGH IN TRAIN; 'T WAS REAL DOUGH, TOO

New York, June 16.—Into the lost and found department of the subway company fluttered Miss Helena Judson of Waterbury, Conn., and announced: "I lost some dough today on the subway." "Yes, ma'am," replied the clerk politely. "How much?" "Oh, a whole pan full!" returned Miss Judson brightly. "You see, I was just returning from a school where I was teaching some students how to make it, and I had it in a pan." The clerk looked interested and polite, but he nudged a companion. "Say," he whispered, "you talk to her. I am afraid. I don't quite understand." Mrs. Judson proceeded with her explanation, which gradually enlightened the clerk to the fact that she is "doing her bit" by teaching women to make "war bread" at Red Cross headquarters, and that the pan in question contained some dough she had mixed and was carrying with her. It was returned to her an hour later.

News that Carpentier has sailed for the United States first reached here in a private cablegram, and although little can be learned of the purpose of his coming, it is believed he will appear in several ring contests. In all of the interviews credited to Carpentier abroad he has expressed the desire to cross the Atlantic for a battle with Jess Willard, heavy-weight champion. Should Carpentier appear in boxing contests here it is probable that the money he earns will go to the French Red Cross. ALGIERS BOY SAFE The Algiers boy, William John Hantel, 25, who was a member of the crew of the torpedoed Standard Oil company's ship, wired his father yesterday that he was safe in Gibraltar. He also stated that Charles Galts also was saved.
