Red Sox Plan Launching of Big Baseball Drive

New York, July 2.—Jack Barry believes that the champion Red Sox will hit their true stride on the next Western invasion, which begins at Cleveland on July 7. That is, if Babe Ruth isn't kept out of the game too long by Czar Johnson for plugging Ump Owens at Boston. He points out that the Sox are playing better early-season baseball than they did at this time last season, and the chart shows that on July 1, 1916, the Boston club was occupying fifth place. While there is a strong point in the relative showing of the team this year as against 1916, it is hard to see why Barry should pick the coming road trip for a Red Sox drive.

Every ball club finds obstacles on the road which are not encountered at home. And the average winning club finds most of its winning on the home lot and is fortunate to break even or a little better on the road.

But Barry is set in his belief, and it is more than likely that he expects the pitchers to show better form. Ruth and Leonard bore the brunt of the pitching up to the middle of June. They worked any odd time they were needed and it was up to them because Shore and Mays were not ready. Two weeks ago, however, these two hurlers began to show signs of real form and took a heavy load off Barry's mind. If Boston is to come through as Barry predicts, she will have to accomplish it with four pitchers, and every one of the four will have to be going at top speed, according to the way the dope sheet reads. This is why Ruth's presence in the lineup is absolutely imperative. Boston's pitchers are great workmen when they are all working, but in the West they are going to encounter some stubborn opposition on the mound, for the White Sox and Cleveland staffs are improving with the warm weather here to stay, and the White Sox, in particular, are long on pitching talent, where Boston is badly in need of a fifth pitcher. Bader has shown class in the few games in which he has worked, but as a regular he probably will be found a weak sister.

Whatever the standing of the Boston club may be when they hit the road for the second long trip, the outcome of their invasion will be watched with the keenest interest by the fans, for if the Red Sox staff is going to crack, as predicted by so many of the critics, the coming road trip will be the logical place for the crash.

One thing in favor of a stubborn fight on the part of the Bostonites is the indomitable confidence of everyone connected with the team, from President Harry Frazee down to the mascot. Those Sox have met with success so often that they can't understand what "slump" or "hard going" means.

Wagner for Manager?
Will this be Jimmy Callahan's last season as manager of the Pirates? Barney Dreyfus hasn't hinted that he is contemplating a change, and as Barney doesn't very often deal in futures—for publication—he would probably answer the direct question with some remark about the high cost of holes in cheese.

But the wags have it that Callahan will probably "resign" at the close of the present season and that Honus Wagner will be named manager of the club.

That Wagner returned to the Pirates with the understanding he was to be made manager is improbable, for Honus is not that kind of a man. The big Dutchman is kind, and, if anything, a bit sentimental. He is not the kind of a man who would horn his way into the shoes of another.

Yet the fact remains that Honus is immensely popular, and as manager of the Pirates his popularity would be even greater, for he is still capable of playing ball. Whether or not he would consider the managerial berth is another question.

But the wags have it that way, and sometimes the wags are dead right.

The Saier Case
Vic Saier, recently handed his release by the Chicago Cubs, is certainly entertaining old man hard luck these days.

The great first sacker broke his leg at the start of the season and his ball playing for 1917 was over then and there. At the time no one believed that the Cubs would hand him a release, for when he is sound and well he is one of the best ball players in the big show.

The release of Saier, therefore, came as a surprise to the general baseball public, for every one thought that he would be carried by the Cubs because he broke his leg in service on the diamond. Evidently Saier's contract did not keep him on the payroll.

The real cause for his release, according to the best information, is the fact that one of his eyes is failing him. This was said to be the cause of his batting slump in 1916 and the purchase of M. Switz from Cincinnati indicated at the time that Saier was slipping.

ENTIRE SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS OFF TO FIGHT
By International News Service.
Medford, Mass., July 2.—Every young man in the Sunday school class of Mrs. Sarah A. Clapp at the Medford Mystic Congregational church has joined some branch of the national defense. There are sixteen in all, more than half of whom are going abroad to fight. All declare her influence has been paramount in their deciding what to do in the crisis.

ASKS QUAKER PACIFISTS TO RESTORE FRANCE
By International News Service.
Morion, Ind., July 2.—The Rev. C. E. Hint, pastor of the First Friends' church, expects to lead a body of "conscientious objectors" to France in the near future. He has asked Quakers, who claim exemption because of their religious teachings, to volunteer for service in rebuilding France. He proposes to aid in restoring gardens, vineyards, farms and towns.

MAY PLAY PART IN THE GREAT WAR
Brigadier-General Frank McIntyre, military censor and chief of the bureau of insular affairs, was born in Alacozia January 5, 1865, and appointed to the military academy from that state in 1882. In 1886 he was commissioned a second lieutenant and was assigned to the Nineteenth infantry, in which arm of the service he continued to serve until the establishment of the bureau of insular affairs, in which he served as a subordinate officer until made chief of the bureau.

Upon the entry of the United States in the war against Germany, General McIntyre was appointed military censor and immediately was assigned to duty of censoring all messages transmitted by telegraph or telephone across the Mexican border. The task was not a new one to him, having occupied a similar position while serving in the Philippine islands.

In the present war General McIntyre has endeavored to perform his official functions without the least interference with legitimate business, and already has earned for himself a reputation of fairness which he gained during his Philippine service.

General McIntyre also is press censor, and his idea of censoring is to keep from the public only such information as will be of service to the enemy. He believes that this is a war of the people, and that it is being fought by the people and said for by them, and that, therefore, they are entitled to know what their forces are doing. With this policy it is his plan to tell the public everything and to thereby co-operate to the fullest degree with the Washington correspondents.

As chief of the bureau of insular affairs, General McIntyre has charge of the affairs of all of the insular possessions of the United States, with the exception of the Virgin Islands, which are under the supervision of the navy department.
